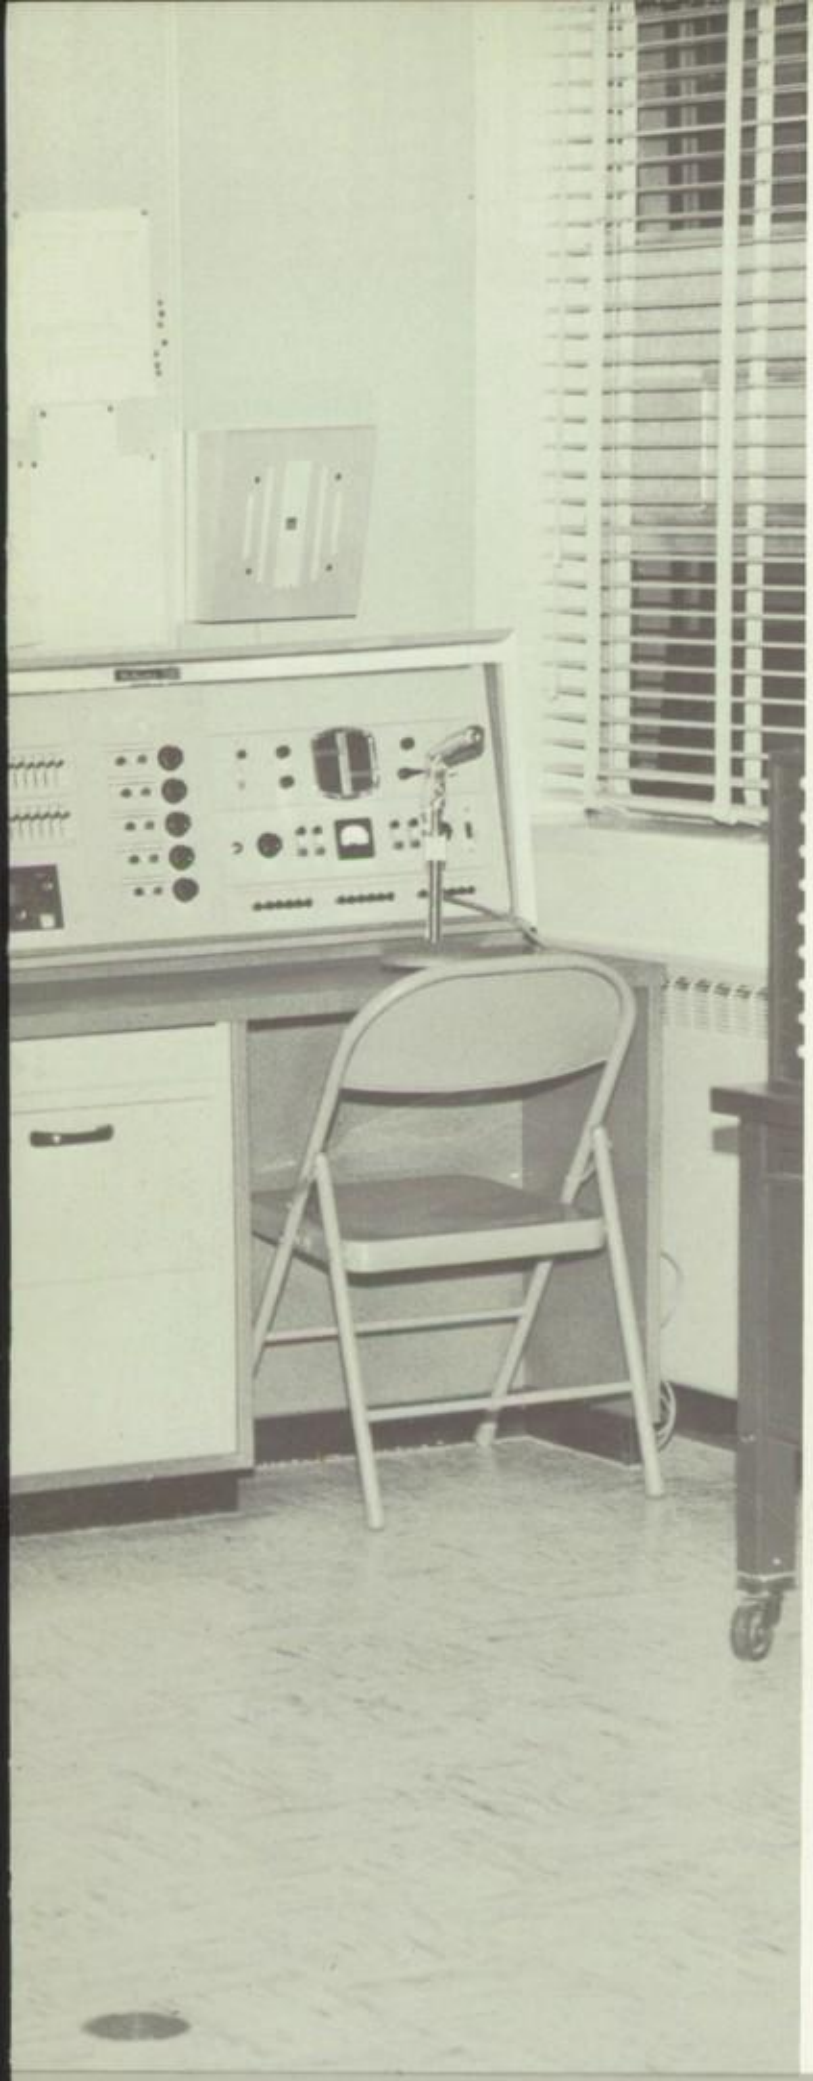
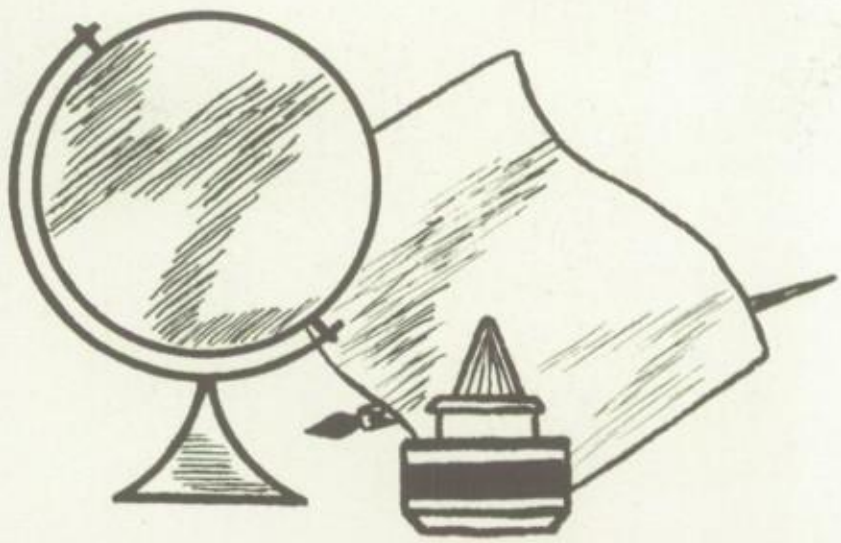
FACULTY

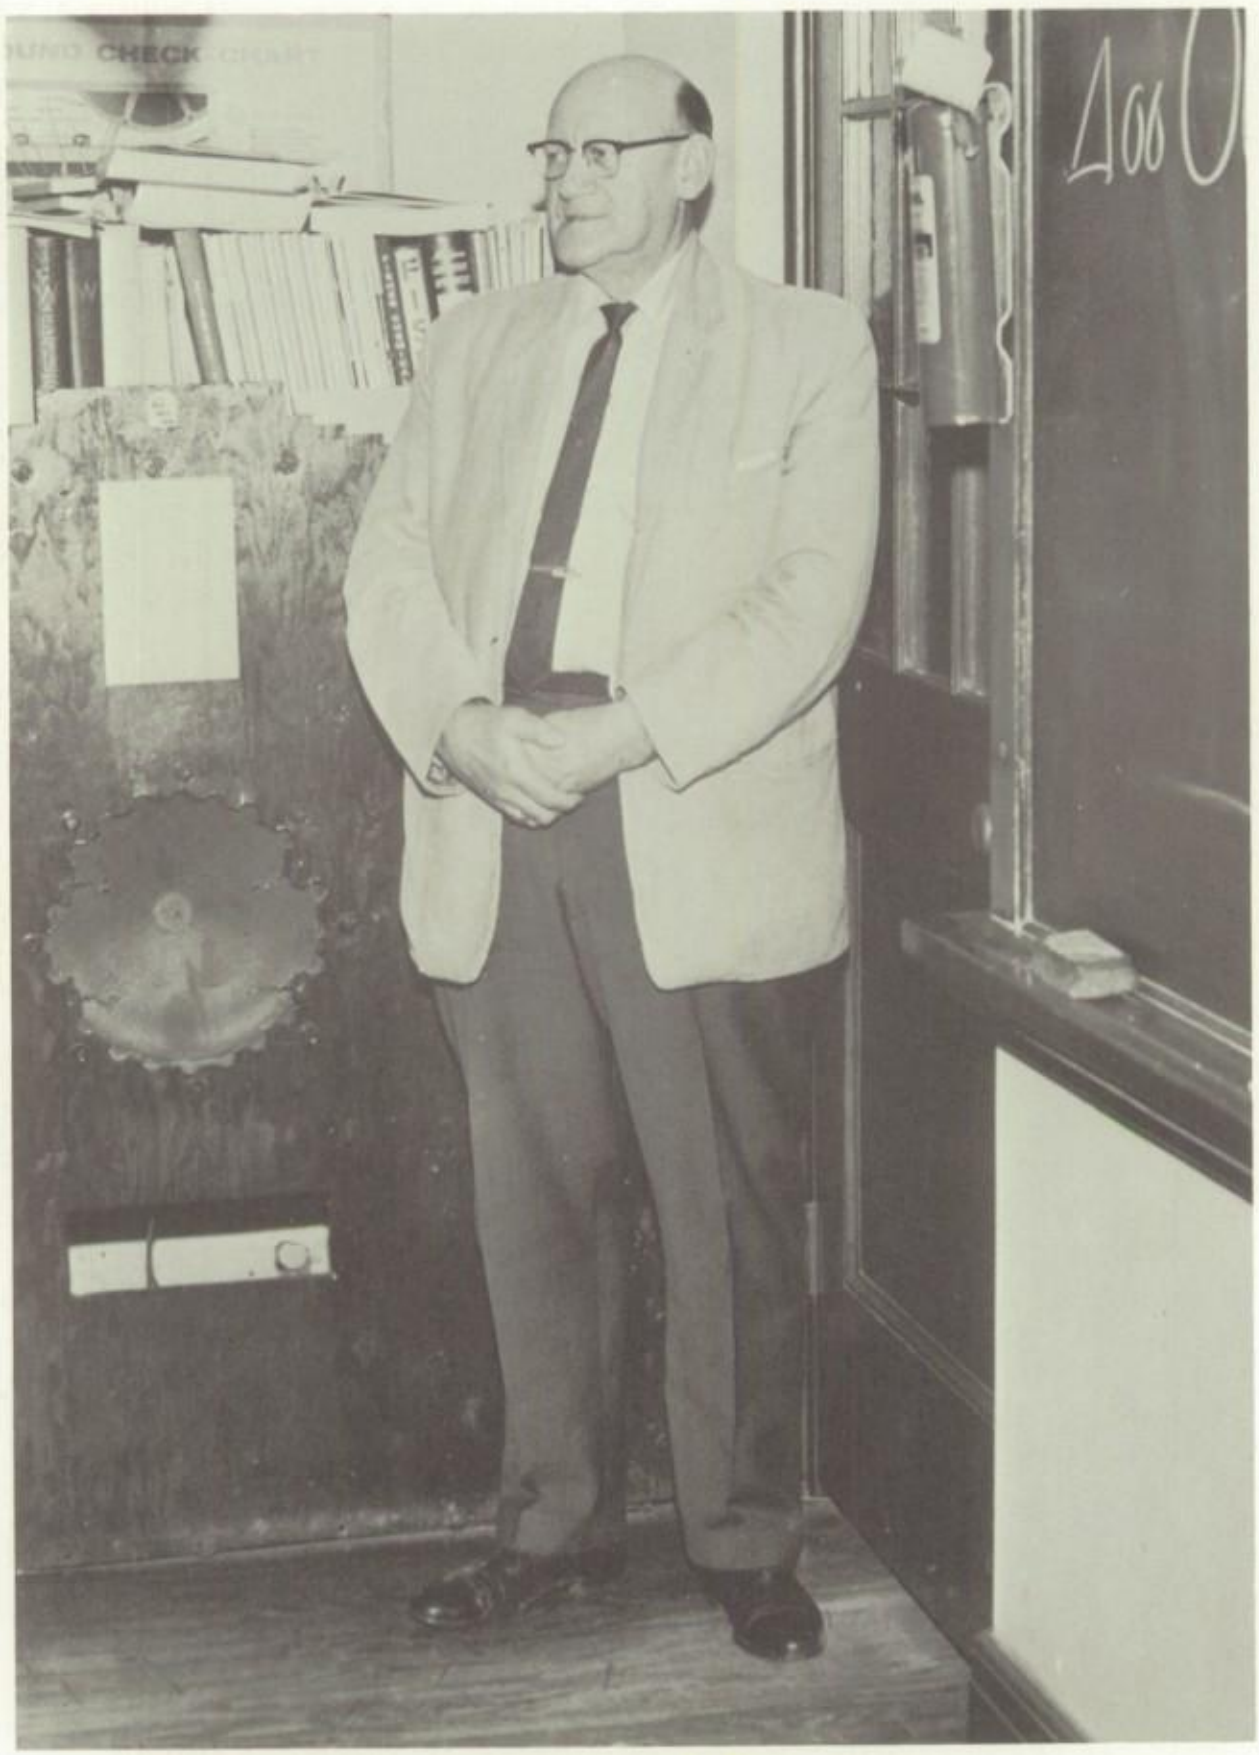


• Our appreciation for the services rendered by the Otto-Eldred teaching staff certainly cannot be over-emphasized. This group of educators has dedicated many years to this profession, and it is our hope that someday all the students who have graduated from Otto-Eldred will realize the contribution our teachers have made.

Those students who go on to college will assuredly benefit from the excellent instruction they receive in this high school. They may not realize just how important this preparation is to them until they are actually in college, but they will constantly find themselves applying the training they acquire here.

Many of the students who are walking through the halls of our school will be enabled to go on to greater things because of the education received here. Our faculty is preparing these young men and women for the life they will be leading in the years to come. The value of this knowledge obtained by the guidance and tutelage of the faculty here at Otto-Eldred will one day be seen •





C B Lovejoy

In Honor of Mr. Swoyer

• Mr. Swoyer, who came to Otto-Eldred from Austin High School in 1944, has contributed nineteen years of educational service to our school. Born in 1899, he spent his childhood in Renovo, Pennsylvania. Later he attended Lock Haven College, where his Bachelor of Science Degree was earned, and St. Bonaventure University, where he received his Master of Science Degree. Mr. Swoyer now teaches general science, physics and chemistry.

Before entering the teaching profession he worked as a store attendant for the railroad for ten years. This gave him the opportunity to travel on almost every track throughout the United States.

His jukebox is one of his most prized possessions, for he himself built it in 1942 and 1943. This shows his great enthusiasm for music and has also led him to acquire over fifteen hundred records which he keeps in his stock room and at his home.

Mr. Swoyer enjoys collecting maps, indicating the numerous railroad tracks in Pennsylvania, and pamphlets about railroad cars. He also enjoys hearing the Weatherford Quartet and other gospel singers.

It has been a great honor to have Mr. Swoyer as a member of our faculty and we are certain that he will be missed •

Paragons in the School Administration

• One of the main cogs in our school machinery is Mr. Ralph L. Sweitzer, our supervising principal. His guidance is necessary for the smooth function of school affairs.

Mr. Sweitzer, who has been employed at Otto-Eldred for thirty-one years, began his career here as a commercial teacher.

He is an active member of the Duke Center Methodist Church and of the Otto Township Lions Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Sweitzer's only daughter, Mrs. Betty Rose Swift, resides with her husband and two children in Erie, Pennsylvania.

The Otto-Eldred High School principal, Mr. John J. Finnessy, has been a member of our administration for six years. Mr. Finnessy supervises all activities at the high school, including basketball and football games, both at home and away.

Mr. Harold Childs, supervisor of Otto-Eldred's four elementary schools, is in charge of the attendance of the entire school district enrollment. Mr. and Mrs. Childs recently journeyed to Japan to visit their daughter, a teacher in Hokodate.

Handling financial matters, hiring teachers, and setting the school calendar are examples of the responsibilities of the Otto-Eldred Joint School Board. Harry Lehman presides as president over the other sixteen board members, who are elected by the adult residents of the school districts for a four-year term •

• Everything has a beginning. These four words of knowledge lend themselves to our English department. Here the fundamentals of our language are taught by Mrs. Wasson, Mrs. Harwick, and Mr. Taylor. Mrs. Aiken and Mrs. Breck supplement to this learning when we are juniors. Our high school English instruction is completed when we are seniors by Mr. Brown. Mrs. Breck and Mr. Brown teach Latin and Spanish classes, respectively.

Reading and various sports seem to be the favorite pastimes of the literary staff. Mr. Taylor likes to hunt and fish, while singing in the church choir is a weekly hobby of Mr. Brown. Mrs. Harwick and Mrs. Breck like to read, and Mrs. Wasson enjoys playing golf. In her leisure time Mrs. Aiken sews and in the summer swims at the Otto Recreation Park •

• Our constantly changing world demands that citizens have a greater understanding of math and science. The competent instructors in our science and math departments help prepare students for a role in these vital fields.

Many years of experience and study have resulted in a well-informed department of seven teachers. Mr. Swoyer, a retiring member of our faculty, has been teaching thirty-one years.

One must frequently divert his thoughts from business to pleasure. The interests of these teachers are varied and fascinating. Mrs. Childs enjoys knitting; Mrs. Lynch and Mr. Caruso, reading. Music provides enjoyment for Mr. Morley and Mr. Swoyer, whose jukebox is a familiar sound at Otto-Eldred. Hunting and fishing are Mr. Scarcell's favorite sports, while golfing appeals to Mr. Hansen •

• For those students who do not plan to attend college, O-E furnishes a capable business staff. Mrs. Neely and Mrs. Regis teach the commercial-secretarial course; Mr. Duff, the accounting courses.

During high school several history courses are presented. Mr. Wolcott teaches the seventh and eighth graders social studies, and Mr. Fazio instructs the eighth graders and juniors in American history. Pennsylvania history and civics are taught by Mr. Richards and Mr. Taylor to the freshmen. The seniors learn the problems of democracy under the guidance of Mr. Richards.

In her spare time Mrs. Neely sews. Mr. Duff spends much of his time advising this year's senior class. Mr. Wolcott hunts and fishes and Mr. Fazio bowls, golfs, and skis •

• Mr. Aiken, our able choral director, is well known for his devotion to his school and community. Just one of Mr. Kelly's many responsibilities is our fine marching band. Mrs. Leffler provides the grade school children with their basic foundation in music.

Under the instruction of Mr. Jordan and Mr. Lehosky the boys learn to make useful objects for the home and for their own use. This is also where our future draftsmen develop.

Mrs. Irons and Mrs. Wolcott lay the foundations of a happy home in their classes. Besides cooking and sewing, the girls learn home management and child care.

What is art? This is the dominant theme in room 111. Mr. Ray attempts to bring this knowledge to students through his daily art and art elective classes •

• Because of today's emphasis on physical fitness, O-E's gym instructors have engaged in regular programs of physical education. Mr. Harwick has introduced to his students the Marine tests for physical fitness. Mrs. Pasko stresses physical fitness through exercises and work on the apparatus.

Guidance in one's choice of vocation is rendered by Mr. Nichols, who, through various tests and personal associations, offers assistance to students seeking it.

O-E's registered nurse, Miss Hennigan, offers medical aid and keeps a personal health record of each student.

Through the competent endeavors of Mr. Wilcox, students receive instructions in the art of skillful driving. Because all driving situations cannot be met in the classroom, he provides a course in behind the wheel driving.

Our librarian, Mrs. Reed, offers an accelerated reading course to the seniors. She instructs students in use of the library and is helpful to a student writing any type of research paper •

These Staffs Help

• Providing a healthful atmosphere in our school is the task of the janitors. These men work long hours maintaining the cleanliness, beauty, and comfort of the high school building. Recognition is due to our custodians for their efficient work in keeping the school in its best condition at all times.

We owe much appreciation to our cooking staff for the well-balanced meals served daily in the cafeteria, which is facilitated with modern conveniences and is kept in excellent order by the cooks. Twice each school year, before Christmas and Thanksgiving vacations, the cooking ladies serve the students a special lunch, a turkey dinner with all the trimmings. The student body especially appreciates the extra effort required for these festive occasions.

The invaluable services rendered by these people add to the enjoyment of scholastic life and incite a deeper sense of value toward education in our student body •

Mrs. Hosmer, Mrs. Irons, Mrs. Gerringer, Mrs. Herbert, and Mrs. Wolcott.

School Life Operate Smoothly

• For the proper functioning of a school system many student records and financial reports must be made and kept up to date. The key to efficiency in this is a competent secretarial staff such as that in our school.

Mrs. Van Scoter, who works in the main office, is indispensable to our student body. We have come to regard her as one of our best friends, ready to help us at any time during the day.

Mrs. Hess is secretary to our supervising principal and Mrs. Walker is responsible for cafeteria funds and supplies.

To our office secretaries we express appreciation for the contribution they make to the education of students at Otto-Eldred •

Best Wishes
Mary

Mrs. VanScoter examines a letter to the SCF from Mr. Finnessey.

SENIORS

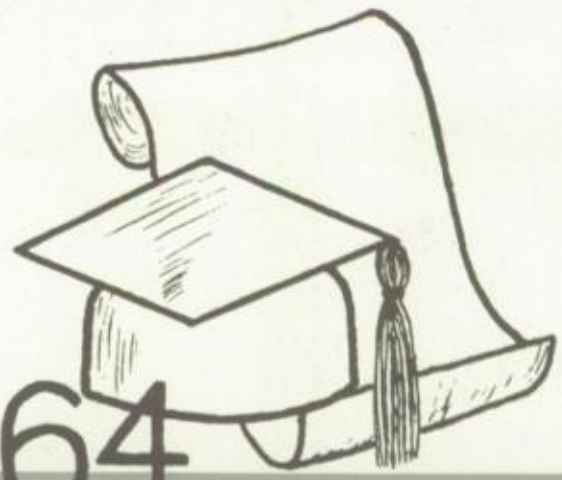
• Each school day at Otto-Eldred is a new adventure for a senior. He explores new avenues of learning, becomes aware of various ideas, shares experiences with others, and, in general, begins to cope with obstacles similar to those he will face after graduation.

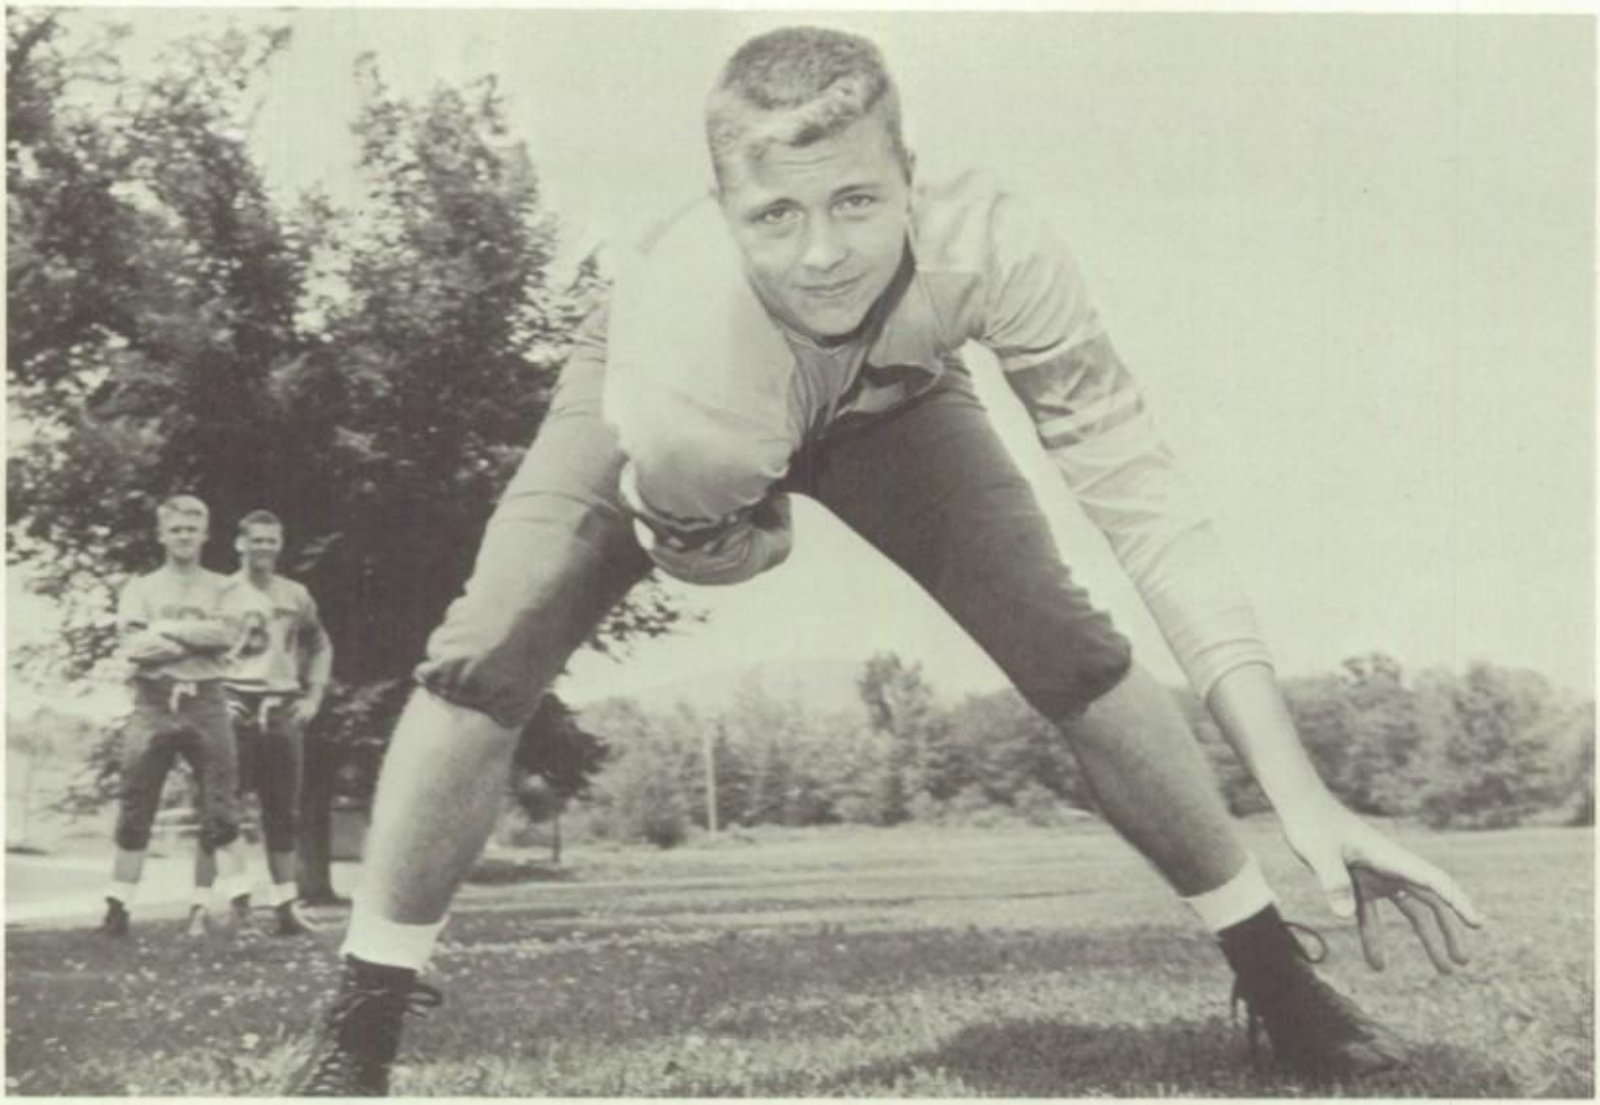
Chemistry, Spanish, trigonometry and solid geometry, typing, and accelerated reading are subjects which seniors may elect to study. English, problems of democracy and economics, and physical education are courses required to earn a diploma.

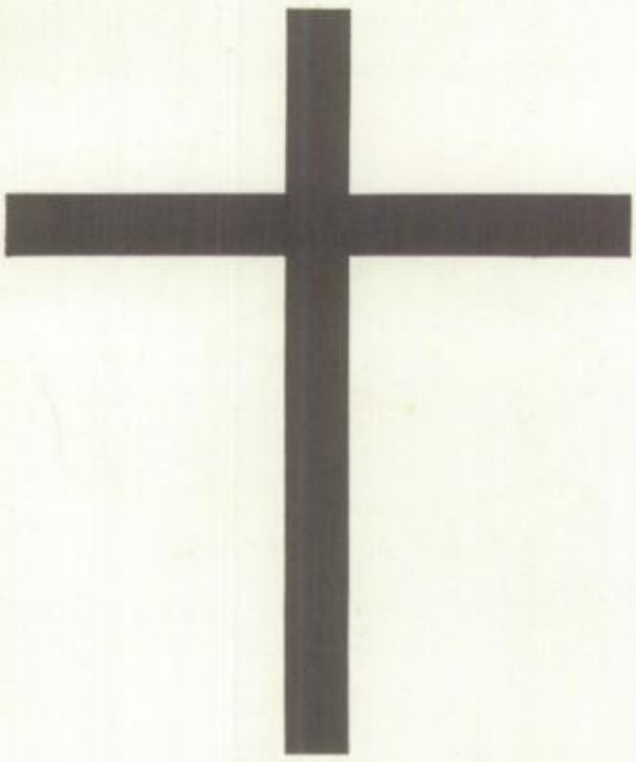
Seniors also enjoy many varied activities throughout the school year. Boys participate in interschool varsity football and basketball. Their other activities include soccer, volleyball, wrestling, and calisthenics. Senior girls compete against each other and underclass teams in intramural basketball, volleyball, and badminton. Several of these young ladies also present gymnastic demonstrations of grace and skill in the annual high school Arts Festivals.

All seniors eagerly await the four main events which highlight the year. In the fall is the senior play, then, in the spring comes the prom, with dining, dancing, and entertainment all night, the junior-senior banquet, paid for by the Christmas-card sale, and, finally, baccalaureate and commencement.

After graduation, what then? Many students plan to attend college. They will become the doctors, lawyers, nurses, artists, teachers, scientists, and business leaders of tomorrow. Others may join a branch of the United States Armed Forces and travel to many fascinating far-a-way places. Perhaps some will seek employment immediately after graduating. Whatever vocation a senior may choose he will have gained invaluable training during his years at Otto-Eldred •







• In memory of our departed classmate, we the staff of the 1964 Ottocrat have chosen to dedicate this book to Roger J. Woodruff.

Roger will never be forgotten by any of his classmates for many reasons. He was, as we will always remember him, a happy-go-lucky person who could take a joke as well as play one. He was a fine football player whose service would have been of great benefit to this year's varsity team. Most important of all, he was a person whose friendship was cherished by all who knew him.

Roger's memory will live on forever in the hearts of each and every one of his classmates and friends •

"Take Your Medicine"

"Want me take your temperchur, Dottie?"

Our nurses gain a little weight off stage.

• Each fall the senior play is presented. This year it had an entirely different setting—a hospital; the name, Take Your Medicine. Reclining in his unbearable hospital bed is Mr. Dodson. Opposite him is Mr. Puckett. Every few minutes a nutty-looking student nurse bounces in and takes their temperatures. Frequent visitors are Angela Warren, Dodson's niece, her fiancé, Dr. William Jackson, Cordella Puckett, Jonathan's overbearing sister, and Dovie Finkledink, who is out to latch her hands upon anything that wears pants.

The hospital staff includes Jack, an orderly, Lottie and Dottie, practical nurses, and Pat Pryor, Mr. Dodson's nurse. The whole body is under the disciplinary thumb of Miss Holt, who sees everything is functioning properly.

The oddity of the whole situation is Angela's desire to obtain money from her uncle. To follow this through she introduces her fiancé as a doctor. Although he is a doctor of mathematics, her uncle believes he is a medical doctor. This lends itself to many hilarious situations which makes the audience roar with laughter •

Our mighty thinker is scheming again, what's up?

Now Judy, are you practicing the play?

--November 26, 1963

Our dramatic actresses enter the scene with a bang.

Here is the man responsible for the huge success.

Our directors take a back seat to criticize.

They've begun to settle down to practicing their parts.

UNDERCLASS

• Underclass years are memorable, eventful years —the years which so importantly prepare one for any future challenge in the world outside. This is the time when one's aptitudes and interests are developed so that he might efficiently meet the standards the world has set, and reach the goals he desires.

We make new friends, meet new people, and begin to develop socially—through class projects and dances. Our class projects stress co-operation and leadership, important characteristic qualities needed for future jobs and challenges. Other activities, such as the football and the basketball games, show a great need for school spirit, and the majority of that school spirit is represented by underclassmen.

Interests are developed through certain elective courses, and the path we plan to follow after graduation is begun by the choice of curriculum in high school.

All underclassmen anxiously await the day when they, too, are seniors, who hold the highest seat in the school. They take the last step—to graduate and meet these problems of today, fully prepared to cope with them successfully.

In order to achieve this goal a great deal of hard work and effort must be expended and developed into a useful commodity of our nation •

• The juniors are one step nearer to graduation, with much to be remembered in the years to come. Preparation for their greatest responsibility, the Junior-Senior Prom, begins in the fall with the magazine sales.

The arrival of class rings finds the juniors beginning to make further plans for the prom and the junior play. Through hard work and co-operation of the class, and with the initiative and drive of their efficient advisor, Mr. Hansen, both major events will have great results.

The Junior-Senior Banquet will be the next event of the year, one of the many to be remembered. However, they must also look forward to the future—they look with anticipation to their senior year and finally to the time to enter the adult world •

• The sophomore year marks a student's entrance into senior high school. He eagerly looks forward to senior high activities and to the prestige of being an upperclassman. Sophomores who are interested in higher education begin to consider the curricula of various colleges, college-entrance requirements, and available scholarship opportunities for those with high scholastic standings.

Sophomore girls may become members of the senior chorus, the drill team, G.A.A., or the junior varsity cheerleading squad.

Sophomore boys may also join the Otto-Eldred Senior Mixed Chorus, or they may play junior varsity football or basketball. J.V. players travel to other schools and gain much playing experience, which will be invaluable to them during the next two years. This experience also helps to encourage good sportsmanship and to develop better teamwork.

Vocational preference tests are given to sophomores by Mr. Nichols, the Otto-Eldred guidance counselor. These examinations are designed to give a general picture of each student's interests and may assist him later in selecting a vocation •

• The freshman year is significant, for this is the year between junior high school and senior high school. In previous years, as students, these freshmen had their schooling planned for them, and their activities were limited. This year they were required to select a course of study. With this responsibility comes the privilege of participating in school activities. Among the activities and courses offered to freshmen are inter-scholastic basketball, girls' cheerleading, higher mathematics, and foreign language. These students await with eager anticipation their following high school years and the additional opportunities they will bring •

• In the eighth grade students begin to enjoy high school life. Now they are treated as adults and as students capable of assuming responsibilities. They are not looked down upon as newcomers anymore; so, they feel a bit more superior than the seventh graders. By selecting the courses to be taken the following year, their new responsibilities as ninth graders are met. Students of this grade are now full pledged citizens of O-E and are also fully aware of the many challenges about to come their way. Boys may try out for freshman basketball and football which instruct them in sportsmen-like conduct and the rules of the game. Girls may try out for J.V. cheerleading to obtain the virtues of a good sportsman. In conclusion, this is only the beginning for these young people •

• Each September, many students from the three grade schools take their first important step into the future when they enter their new school for the first time. This first year is a hectic one, but many lasting friendships are formed and many new interests are cultivated. These seventh-graders enter their new environment with enthusiasm and anticipation, despite the confusion of their first weeks at O-E.

As the year progresses, these students find that they have acquired new responsibilities as well as new privileges in their school life. They accept both of these quickly and begin to look forward to their future years at O-E.

Best of luck to these citizens of the future •

CLASS OFFICERS—W. Murphy, A. Talbott, E. Burr, J. Johnson.

ACTIVITIES

• At Otto-Eldred the varied talents of students may be developed through extracurricular activities. Sports minded boys may go out for either football or basketball. These sports help to improve body co-ordination and to promote good sportsmanship. With football season come the crisp, cool autumn nights and the exciting half-time shows, given by the marching band and drill team. Basketball season brings to enthusiastic spectators all the thrills of a fast-moving game. Our peppy cheerleaders lead the crowds with spirited cheers. The G.A.A. and Varsity O-E serve our various sports departments with their dances after the game and their popcorn selling.

The band, under the direction of Mr. Kelly, and the chorus, under Mr. Aiken, practice long and hard for their public appearances. The county, district, and regional bands and choruses provide further entertainment for those talented enough to be chosen •

• Otto-Eldred's fine marching band contributes much to the excitement of our football games. This band has a double job, playing well and keeping rhythm as they march. The director, Mr. Kelly, has introduced several college routines which have produced the short snappy numbers that entertain the half-time crowds. Included also are the majorettes, who add color and dazzle the spectators with their twirling. The newest addition is the color guard, a marching organization, who not only carry the flag, but also know flag etiquette.

These three groups have traveled together to participate in the events of the Laurel Festival and Band Day at Penn State •

• The many and varied organizations of O-E are a part of nearly every student's high school career. The G.A.A., a strictly girls' club, embodies those interested in interschool sports. Mrs. Pasko, advisor to more than one hundred forty girls, plans pep rallies, works out Drill Team performances, and organizes post-game dances. The boys who have earned a varsity letter also carry on various activities through the Varsity O-E. Their advisors, Mr. Wilcox and Mr. Hansen, direct athletes in codes of fair play and good sportsmanship. To gain funds for the varsity jackets and sweaters, this group annually canvasses the surrounding areas selling school license plates and during the athletic seasons, selling popcorn to the fans.

The second year of the Student Council has brought pride to our school. A clothing drive to aid the Save the Children's Federation was conducted, bringing bountiful results. Their activities were led by Mr. Finnessy, our principal, who is to be commended for the group's efforts •

Many of the Awards Featured Throughout the School

• Those students who possess superior qualities of leadership, service, scholarship and character make up the National Honor Society. At Otto-Eldred these students are regarded highly by both faculty and student body. They are expected to be model students and responsible citizens.

The induction ceremony is an assembly in which the parents of two-year members are asked to participate. Each two-year member delivers an oration on one of the necessary qualities for acceptance into the National Honor Society. This ceremony instills into each candidate the full realization of his duties as a worthy member •

Two Years Members of the National Honor Society are S. Bellamy, D. Hamilton, K. Spehar, C. Frame, and C. Schorman.

MEMBERS OF COUNTY CHORUS—Row 1: G. Loll, K. Kockler, S. Shoff, S. Shoff, K. Spehar, S. Lehman, D. Grow, M. LaBella, I. Baker, S. Batt. Row 2: S. Olexa, S. Bellamy, C. Johnson, D. Hamilton, C. • Students who excel in band and chorus may be chosen for the annual county and district festivals and also for regional chorus, which is an even greater honor. Many long, hard hours of practice are needed in preparation for these events.

District and regional participants are required to board with a family for one or two nights. Thus, besides providing musical enrichment, these festivals give one the opportunity to meet new people.

For people who enjoy popular music there is a dance band. Under the direction of Mr. Kelly this band swings with the latest tunes •

SPORTS

• It's not so much the winning of the game, but how you play that counts. This is a familiar saying which probably dates back to the beginning of competitive sports. We are proud to say that each time an Otto-Eldred team enters competition, it carries with it this attitude, but it also possesses an intense desire for victory. It is perhaps difficult for a non-sportsminded person to understand how both of these qualities may be possessed at the same time. By their performances this season, however, both the football and basketball teams proved that these may be maintained simultaneously.

Actually, each victory is dependent upon two types of conditioning. First, it is essential for every team to have the proper mental attitude. This consists of not only the desire to win, but also sportsmanship. The second type of conditioning is of course physical. The teams attain this only through many rigorous hours of calistenics and practice. Finally, it takes many more hours both on and off the field to coordinate these two necessary factors of victory.

Thanks to our able coaching staffs under the direction of Coaches Wilcox and Hansen, we are proud to say that this year's teams possessed this winning combination of mental and physical conditioning •

• Just as each season has its highlights and most exciting games, so does each school have its outstanding seasons. For the Terrors of Otto-Eldred, this was indeed one of those seasons. Their 7-2 record has earned them a spot among the top teams ever to represent the Blue and Gold. By winning seven games, the 1963 Terrors tied the school record for victories in one season set in 1941, and their won-lost record becomes the second best in Blue and Gold history, surpassed only by 1941's unspotted 7-0 mark.

The Terrors' avid followers will long remember the many close, hard fought games they witnessed during the past season. More than once they saw O-E come from behind to pull out a last-second victory. In the season's opener, for example, a last quarter touchdown gave the team its 13-7 victory over a tough Sheffield team. Later in the season, the Terrors scored two last-second victories in succession. First, trailing Allegany 7-0 in the final period, O-E finally took over and scored two touchdowns, the last with only ten seconds remaining, to gain its fifth win in six starts. The next week at St. Marys the Terrors, after trailing 21-7 at halftime, scored twice in the last minute of play to defeat the Dutchmen 34-27. The Bishop Walsh game was also decided in the final minutes, but not favorably for the Terrors, for a Walsh touchdown gave O-E its second defeat in eight games.

The members of this year's team should be complimented and remembered for their fine achievements on the football field, and Coach Wilcox and his coaching staff should be commended for the great effort they have put forth to make this team possible •

• The development of players for future varsity teams is one of the first aims of our athletic department. To accomplish this, Otto-Eldred maintains a complete schedule of games on the JV and Freshman levels. It is here that the future Blue and Gold teams gain their experience and confidence.

Coached by Mr. Lehosky, the JV team compiled a 3-3-1 record. The coaching staff was quite proud of this team for their hustle and desire throughout the season. Although the freshmen were unable to gain a victory and ended the season with a 0-5-1 mark, they too displayed fine sportsmanship and desire •

• It has been said that a good team must have experience, and this experience can be gained only through actual competition. For this reason the success of a team usually depends greatly upon its seniors. O-E's football team was indeed fortunate this year to have an unusually large number of seniors who had had at least one, and in some cases even two, full seasons of varsity competition behind them. Led by the seniors pictured on these pages, the 1963 Terrors compiled an impressive record of seven victories and only two defeats. This is a record of which both the school and these players may be proud. Many of these fine athletes have perhaps played their last football game, while others may participate in the sport for many years to come; but no matter what the future holds for each of these players, Otto-Eldred will always be proud of them for their contributions to this team and to the school •

The Blue and Gold of O-E Compiled an 11-9 Record In Games Which Will Be Long Remembered.

Mr. Duff and Mr. Aiken are an essential part of the team.

• Few people realize the amount of training and practice required to produce a successful team. The Terrors of Otto-Eldred begin their training early in November and continue to strive for excellence until the end of February. Over this four month period many things happen to the team. The first few weeks are devoted almost entirely to conditioning and a quick review of basketball fundamentals. During the next couple weeks the Terrors work to develop the spirit and teamwork which are essential to a successful season. Only now, after nearly five weeks of continuous practice, are the Terrors ready to play their first game.

O-E opened its 1963-64 season on a dismal note by losing to Bishop Walsh in Olean, but this did not lower the team's spirit. They proceeded to win four of their next five games, including a 66-52 victory over Cuba and a 63-52 decision over Portville to win the Portville Christmas Tournament. In the Northern Tier League the Terrors compiled a respectable 8-6 record and finished in fourth place behind the only three teams to defeat them. Blue and Gold fans witnessed many exciting and intriguing league games this season. The 55-49 victory at Oswayo Valley was the first victory ever for an O-E team on that court. Another interesting game was the Terrors' 90-81 win at Austin on February 21. O-E's 90 points proved to be the highest score ever attained by one of Mr. Hansen's teams.

These are only a few of the highlights of this season, and we at Otto-Eldred High School are proud of our team for their fine achievements •

Fred Baker scores from the foul line in the Terrors' 42-78 loss to Bishop Walsh.

• The backbone of nearly every team is its senior lettermen. These players provide the experience necessary for a winning team and also guide and encourage the younger members of the squad. This year's varsity basketball team had seven such seniors, each of whom wll be remembered for his contribution to the successful season they enjoyed. Fred Baker led the team in scoring with 220 points in twenty games for an 11 point average. Chuck Frame maintained a 9.1 average per game with 174 points in nineteen games, while Dale Littlefield led the team in rebounding and averaged 9.0 points per game. Rob Looker, the shortest player on the team, was the captain and floor general of the team. Harris Blauser and Tom Merry alternated at the center position and helped control the boards for the Terrors. Bob Lord provided the necessary bench strength which proved extremely helpful to the team throughout the season •

Now They Gain Valuable Experience for Their Future at O-E.

O-E's basketball coaches: Mr. Hansen, Mr. Fazio, and Mr. Wilcox.

• Building a good, smooth-working varsity basketball team is not a one-year job. The training starts in the eighth and ninth grades, where Mr. Wilcox teaches the fundamentals of the sport to the boys he selects for the freshman team. Playing their schedule, which includes Olean, Kane, and Bradford, these young athletes learn sportsmanship and put into practice their knowledge of the basic basketball patterns. During many hours of practice after school, Mr. Wilcox introduces the varsity patterns to the members of his squad.

As sophomores these boys try out for the junior varsity team. Under the guidance of Mr. Fazio, those selected for the team learn to use to advantage the patterns employed by the varsity. The JVs play the same schedule as the varsity in games immediately preceding the varsity games •

VARSITY CHEERLEADERS—J. Charles, B. Cawley, L. Nobles, J. Crandell, C. Feheley, S. Lehman, M. LaBella, J. Kahle.

• Cheerleading is an essential part of every athletic program. It is the responsibility of the cheerleaders to promote and maintain school spirit and a sense of loyalty to the team. This is important to the team, whether it be football or basketball, for knowing that everyone is supporting them and cheering for them gives the players that added incentive to work harder and to achieve greater goals. At least a portion of the credit for our teams' success during the past year should be given to the cheerleaders honored on these pages. They worked hard and sacrificed many hours of their own time in their efforts to fulfill the responsibilities of a cheerleader. We are proud of the way these girls have performed for the Blue and Gold •

Through this 1964 yearbook we have diligently worked to depict our school, its events, and memories, its faculty, and its students. Many hours of thoughtful planning and work were spent by the staff and its advisors, and only through the concentrated efforts and much collaboration, could this book have been accomplished. As the editors of the 1964 OTTOCRAT, we wish to thank our staff members, our advisor Mr. Ray, those who made contributions and all others who made the 1964 OTTOCRAT possible.

John,
The best of luck
to a real nice boy.
Nancy Cass

Best wishes to a fine lad
Mrs. Gill

John,
Hi there dumby,
I think you're so stupid, but a lot of fun, espacially when Hooknose is around. Remember that time in eight grade? Ol' you propaly won't.
Don't be so rough on the girls understand or she'll spank your delicate Arse.
Sue

Good Luck with
Patty O.
Love Nancy.

Steve Have fun at Otto's And don't forget the 7th grade
dance.
Pam

Dear John,
You're sweetest boy in the world, that means the most to me. If ever I have my heart. Best of luck, I think you my sweetheart (I think you)
Patty

John
I'll be seeing you
Bob

To John,
Best of luck to another
Kid from Rifle. Maybe someday you'll be as tough
as me
Gary

John.
To a real neat kid
Be good and Don't cool
me Steelah
Annie

John.
Real cute
Ike. I do have to laugh. But wish you the best of luck with
her. (Honest) Remember all over.
Ken. I sure will. P. Science and Po. Hope we make it.
John you're the greatest. a friend always Abbie
Marie.

John. How if you can be good - try. OK?
Please quit calling me
those dirty names.
It's not that bad is it?
Wish you'd go back
with someone - she likes you an awful lot, no matter what anyone says.
Be good
Susie

Be good
to Patty
